Vietnam

With her origins shrouded in the mists of time, Vietnam has evolved a rich oral tradition of myth and legend. Its mythology contends the people are descended from a dragon and a fairy. Throughout time, Vietnam has forged her identity through the highs and lows of history. Today it has become a robust and vibrant commercial hub and thriving travel destination in the heart of Southeast Asia. Vietnam offers a magical mix of tropical beaches, post-colonial charm, a string of world-heritage sites, stunning inland scenery, world-famous cuisine and a natural flair for hospitality. It is no longer a low-end tourist destination - with luxury Hotels, world class golf courses, luxury trains and exclusive cruises and other facilities spanning the length of the country. Vietnam has French colonial influence with unique architecture, tree-lined boulevards, majestic scenery, a rich traditional culture, easy going and welcoming locals.

Ho Chi Minh City:

Ho Chi Minh City (formally Saigon) is the heart and soul of Vietnam. It's a bustling, dynamic centre, the largest city in the country, the economic capital and the cultural trendsetter. The streets, where much of the city's life takes place, is a myriad of street markets, shops, pavement cafes, stands-on-wheels and vendors selling wares spread out on sidewalks. Within the teeming metropolis are the timeless traditions and beauty of an ancient culture.

Hanoi:

Hanoi means 'City on a River Bend' and the city has been inhabited since Neolithic times. The capital city's variety of beautiful architecture, historical sites and pleasant atmosphere is conducive to exploration on foot. Take a stroll or cycle through the Old Quarters of "36 streets and 36 wares" where artisans still ply their century-old trades, and visit the many souvenir shops and art galleries.

Hoi An:

Hoi An was a bustling seaport until the 19th century when the river silted up and Danang took over. The architecture of the city reflects the influence of Chinese, Japanese, Portuguese, French and British traders. Hoi An is popular for its quaint charm and interesting mix of architecture dating as far back as the 18th century. Hoi An is best explored on foot - visit its ancient quarters which feature Chinese temples, original wooden houses, souvenir shops and art galleries. Hoi An has also acquired fame as being the tailoring capital of the world for its scores of tailoring shops.

Halong Bay:

Halong Bay is Vietnam's most stunning natural treasure and a World Heritage Site. In the Gulf of Tonkin, Halong Bay is comprised of approximately 3,000 islands which rise from the emerald waters forming a spectacular seascape of limestone pillars. The exceptional aesthetic values of this site are complimented by its great biological interest. The bay is also dotted with numerous grottoes and caves filled with a variety of stalagmites and stalactites.

Hue:

Hue was Vietnam's political capital from 1802 till 1945. Situated on the Perfume River, it was always a cultural, religious and educational centre with many pagodas, the tombs of the emperors and a citadel built in 1687. Regarded as a unique city due to its retention of original architecture and relics of its royal history as well as being an important centre of Buddhism with hundreds of temples and pagodas.

Sapa:

Sapa lies in the north near the Chinese border. Sapa is a colourful town of H'mong and Dzao people from the local hill tribes who head into the town's market every day to trade their produce. There's a main market every Saturday but there's a lower key one every other day during the week. These people will have undergone no formal education but it's a great place to interact with locals as many youngsters have picked up a basic level of English.

Nha Trang:

Nha Trang is a seaside town on the South Central Coast. Nha Trang is popular because of its pristine beach, best scuba diving centre of Vietnam as well as lots of interesting places and delicious food to enjoy. Human settlement in Nha Trang date back to the Cham Empire, though there wasn't much more here than small fishing villages. The French recognized that this beautiful bay, with its islands and white sand beaches, made for a perfect bathing spot, and began the transformation into a resort town.

Cambodia

Cambodia conjures up images of a glorious and mysterious history and rich cultural heritage. For most, Cambodia will be synonymous with the great ancient temple city of Seam Reap. Besides the marvelous temple complexes of Angkor Wat and Bantay Srei, a trip to Cambodia is incomplete with a visit to Phnom Penh.

You will be amazed to see and hear about 4000 years of history of this little-known kingdom, which kept its doors closed to international tourism till a few years back. After about 35 years of non-stop war, this beautiful country has re-emerged from darkness. Since the time of the Vietnam war in the sixties followed by the reign of terror of the Khmer Rouge, a Vietnamese takeover, and a further 20 years of civil war. War of late 60's destroyed much of the already-struggling economy but it stabilized after a new regime took power in 1979. A series of reforms started in 1992 have seen the country make a steady progress to catch up with times. Cambodia is among the fastest growing economies in the region.

Laos

Laos shares borders with China to the North, Myanmar to Northwest, Thailand to the West, Cambodia to the South and Vietnam to the East. Mekong River is the main geographical feature in the west and, in fact, forms a natural border with Thailand in some areas. Laos, the Jewel of the Mekong, is rapidly becoming a new and exciting tourism destination which offers a diversity of unspoiled ethnic lifestyles and traditions, as well as some of the richest and most extensive ecosystems of the region. A shopper's paradise from high-end boutiques to humble market stalls. Both Luang Prabang and Vientiane are teeming with gorgeous boutiques showcasing high quality hand-woven textiles.

Luang Prabang

This ancient town described as an outstanding example of the fusion of traditional architecture and Lao urban structures built by the Europeans. The tiny town is encircled by mountains and is at the confluence of the Nam Khan and Mekong Rivers. Its palm-lined riverbanks, ochre daubed houses, terracotta roofs and saffron-robed monks all come together to form a picture postcard increasingly difficult to find in Southeast Asia. The city centre has most of the attractions like former royal palaces, 33 Wats, colonial buildings and trading houses in the vicinity. This former Royal capital still remains the main centre for Buddhist learning in Laos and is the perfect location for spiritual contemplation.

Vientiane

Vientiane is the centre of Laos culture, it looks more like a collection of villages than a city. Laos reopened its doors to foreign visitors about 15 years back and Vientiane has since changed with dizzying rapidity to accommodate modernization. Central boulevard is reminiscent of the Champ Elysees, another telling sign of the city's French heritage. French-style buildings stand next to Buddhist monasteries and monuments, each telling a story of the country's rich, cultural and somewhat troubled past.

Xien Khouang (Plain of Jars)

Xieng-Khouang is famous as it is the place to view the mysterious Plains of Jars. The hundreds of giant stone jars are strewn all over the plateau - carved out of solid hunks of rock from surrounding mountains, no one really knows why they are there. Theories range from the view that they were made to store wine or they were made to store dead human bodies, as was the practice of ancient believers.

The countryside in Xieng Khouang is breathtakingly beautiful, untouched, and as of now, still not fully exploited by tourism. It offers the awesome beauty of high green mountains and rugged karst formations.

MYANMAR DESTINATIONS

Yangon

Yangon, the cosmopolitan capital city of Myanmar, still maintains its colonial charm with wide tree lined avenues, tranquil lakes, and gracious turn of the century architecture. The city is an amalgamation of British, Burmese, Chinese, and Indian influences, and though it's colonial architecture, which although decaying, remains an almost unique example of a 19th-century British colonial capital. New high-rise buildings were constructed from the 1990s as the government began to allow private investment. However, Yangon continues to be a city of the past, as seen by its longyi-wearing pedestrians, its street vendors, and its pungent smells.

Mandalay

The principal cultural and economic city of upper Myanmar, and former royal capital, Mandalay still evokes images of a romantic bygone era. The royal palace and its impressive surrounding moat sit at the foot of the imposing Mandalay Hill. Positioned on the banks of the mighty Ayeyarwaddy River, Mandalay lies within easy striking distance of former colonial hill stations, ancient cities and other cultural attractions. Known as the 'City of Gems,' due to its proximity to gem-mining areas and its prominence in gem trading; the city is strategically situated on important river routes from India and China.

Bagan

One of the most remarkable archaeological sites in Asia, ancient temples dot the landscape as far as the eye can see. Today, apart from spectacular sunset views and serene river cruises, Bagan is also the centre of the expanding Myanmar lacquer ware industry.

Inle Lake

Inle Lake is famous for its outstanding natural beauty, floating markets, prolific birdlife and most unusual feature is its extraordinary 'one-legged fishermen' who have developed an original, eccentric method of rowing with one leg. In this unique wetland environment, whole villages sit on floating islands on the lake. Colourful hill tribes inhabit the surrounding fertile valleys and forested mountaintops, and their hand-woven silks are a specialty of the region.

Inle's central portion is devoted to floating gardens and newly reclaimed land. All the waterways are marked with whitewashed wooden railings and the round mileposts give it the appearance of a giant, flooded racecourse.

Ngapali

An unspoiled, sleepy beachside with its white sand and crystal clear water, Ngapali Beach stretches about 3 kms fringed by coconut palms. It's not a crowded or noisy beach – it only offers natural scenic beauty of the blouise sea, white sand and the lovely sun.

Along with a fascinating history and a unique culture that includes delectable Thai food and massage, Thailand features a modern capital city, and friendly people who epitomize Thailand's "land of smiles" reputation. Whether you enjoy the bustling city of Bangkok, the lush vegetation of the north or the stunning beaches along the coast, Thailand has something to offer everyone.

Thailand

Bangkok

Bangkok is the capital city and largest city in Thailand. It's Thai name is Krung Thep Maha Nakhon or for short- Krung Thep which means 'city of angels'. It is the most densely populated city with approximately 12 million people. Bangkok in the early days was a small trading post near the mouth of the Chao Phraya River during the Ayutthaya Kingdom in the 15th century. It eventually grew in size and became the site of two capital cities: Rattanakosin in 1782 and Thonburi in 1768. It's strategic position in Southeast Asia, Siam (later renamed as Thailand) acted as a buffer zone between the British and French colonial empires. As a city, Bangkok has earned itself the reputation of being a dynamic independent and influential city making it one of the leading cities in Southeast Asia. This city has everything - Buddhist temples by the dozen, cultural landmarks, shopping, cuisine, nightlife, a red light district which is illegal but tolerated! Bangkok attracts visitors each year by the millions. The third largest amount of visitors behind Paris & London! So a very popular spot!

Kanchanaburi

The westernmost province of Thailand has not only gained fame for its strikingly beautiful landscape - characterized by impressive waterfalls and caves, tranquil river scenery and verdant national parks - but also for its tragic history. During World War II Asian laborers and allied prisoners of war were forced to build the Burma-Siam Railway through the province. The most famous reminder of this tragedy is the "Bridge On the River Kwai," which was immortalized in books and the motion picture of the same name.

Chiang Mai

Means 'new city' even though it celebrated its 720th anniversary recently. It is Thailand's 'Rose of the North'. It is one of the few places in Thailand to experience modern Thai culture with history. Old temples sit next to modern shops and boutique hotels. The moat-encircled old city, retains much of the fortified wall that once protected the centre of the former Lanna capital city. Ethnic hill tribes, cooking and massage schools, handicraft workshops, cultural performances, festivals, outdoor pursuits and amazing scenery make Chiang Mai one of Asia's most attractive tourist destinations.

Chiang Rai (Golden Triangle)

Chiang Rai, the northernmost province of Thailand, lies in the heart of the notorious Golden Triangle, the area where the borders of Thailand, Myanmar, and Laos converge. It is well known for its stunning mountain scenery and is home to several different hilltribes. The main hilltribe groups in this region are Hmong, Karen, Lahu, Lisu, Akha and Mien. These ethnic minorities began to arrive in Thailand at the end of 19th century and some groups may have been here much longer. They were forced out of their native countries, such as Myanmar, China, and Tibet by civil war and political pressures. Each hilltribe has its own customs, culture, religion, clothing and language.

Phuket/ Khao Lak

The tourist mecca of the Andaman Coast. Phuket is one of the world's best known resort islands and Thailand's most popular travel destination. Whether you prefer a stunning secluded beach, the bustling nightlife of Patong, or a scenery packed day trip to Phi Phi, Phuket never fails to impress. Known as the 'Pearl of the Andaman' it offers plenty of natural and man-made attractions both on the island and adjacent coastal area. The island comprises of a series of beach resort areas, all with its own sweeping bay, a well developed tourist centre and a great holiday environment. Renting scooters to get around the island and see the sights is highly recommended as is the day trips to Phang Nga Bay and Phi Phi Island.

Krabi

One of the rising stars in Thailand's tourism industry is unquestionably Krabi. Many visitors are discovering the picturesque tropical islands, which come in many sizes and shapes, that are located just offshore this southern coastal province. Encircled by lush vegetation and towering limestone outcrops, Krabi is an ideal place for beach and nature lovers. Major attractions include the Susan Hoi (Shell Cemetery), Noppharat Thara Beach and the spectacular islands of Ko Phi Phi and Ko Lanta, famed for their unspoiled beaches surrounded by clear blue waters and coral reefs with abundant marine life.

Koh Samui

Ko Samui, Thailand's third largest island (247 square kilometers), lies just offshore the province of Surat Thani. Dubbed "The Coconut Island," Ko Samui is one of the most popular beach and island resorts in Thailand with over half a million visitors each year. It has come to world fame due to its beautiful, long beaches with powdery white sand and crystal clear waters, surrounded by coconut groves.

Hua Hin

Hua Hin is Thailand's premier beach resort town in the Gulf of Thailand. It is less than 200kms from Bangkok so makes it a very popular destination and is the location of the King's summer palace. Known for its beautiful powdery sand beach, lively night market, many beach activities, numerous seaside restaurants and renowned golf courses and the popular music festival, the Hua Hin Jazz Festival. On the coast of Takiab Bay, take seaside horseback rides and visit a hilltop Buddhist temple with spectacular views. Stay at simple beach huts & guest houses or luxury resorts including some of the finest spa retreats in the world.

Koh Chang

Set in the Gulf of Thailand just 315 kilometers south-east of Bangkok, this island is incredibly mountainous and lush rainforest, Koh Chang is perhaps the best-preserved island in Southeast Asia. Beaches, waterfalls, coral reefs and wildlife abound. Koh Chang, a 30-kilometer strip of island with spectacular waterfalls, a rich evergreen forest, idyllic scenery, clear blue waters, crystalline sand and dazzling coral reefs, is indeed an ideal place for beach and nature lovers. For snorkeling and scuba diving enthusiasts, the Marine Park, acclaimed for its incredible corals and aquatic life - should not be missed.

Malaysia

Malaysia consists of 2 similar sized regions – Peninsular Malaysia and Malaysian Borneo. The capital, Kuala Lumpur is situated on the west side of the Peninsula and is a major hub for international flights and a gateway to some of Malaysia's most popular attractions. Malaysia has a multi ethnic, multi-cultural society which provides a wide range of gastronomical choice, culture and arts.

Malaysia is a country truly rich in diversity. From the metropolitan city of Kuala Lumpur, regarded worldwide as a top shopping destination and the stunning beaches of Langkawi's 104 islands, to the ancient rainforests of Borneo, Malaysia has something to offer everyone.

Kuala Lumpur

Kuala Lumpur is where the new embraces the old, where modern sophistication meets colourful tradition. The nation's capital will surprise and delight you with its mix of old and new. In the capital you can soak up the invigorating atmosphere of a busy Asian city while enjoying sumptuous and affordable luxury accommodation. Kuala Lumpur is a relatively easy city to get around with a modern light rail transit, a traditional rail system and a network of buses. The city offers shopping galore from exciting street markets, sophisticated luxury brand signature stores to modern shopping malls – KL has it all!

Langkawi

Langkawi is located off the north-west coast and comprises of a group of fewer than 100 islands forming an archipelago. The group of islands is a protected Geo-Park listed with UNESCO for their natural beauty and ecological value. Situated in the Andaman Sea, the islands have everything from beautiful white sand beaches, coral reefs, lapping waves, to plush resorts and then there is the shopping on the main island Pulau Langkawi. The island attracts travellers from around the globe and caters for all budgets.

Scuba diving and snorkeling are particular holiday favourites. There is much to do on the water and below- from kayaking, sailing and snorkeling to diving among the clear waters around the islands. Beyond the beach, the island is home to a range of spectacular natural reserves that help protect local animal life and make for great day trips.

Penang

Commonly referred to as the Pearl of the Orient, is one of Asia's famous islands. Penang entices many tourists who are drawn to the beautiful beaches and to the deep culture embedded within the island. Penang was recently declared as an UNESCO World Heritage Site. The island has a fabulous coastline along with its rich multicultural history that is filled with European, Indian, Chinese and Malay influences. It is also known to be the 'food paradise' of Malaysia.

Perhentian Island

Blessed with sun-bleached sands and excellent diving and snorkeling in the bluest waters imaginable are the Perhentian Islands of Malaysia's eastern coast. The essentials of any idyllic island holiday – fantastic sandy beaches, and great snorkelling and diving – are all in place. The name Pulau Perhentian actually covers two islands, Perhentian Besar and Perhentian Kecil. Kecil ('Small') is popular with the younger backpacker crowd, and Besar ('Large') has higher standards of accommodation and a more relaxed ambience

Pulau Redang Island

Pulau Redang, located 45km off the coast of Kuala Terengganu, is the largest of a group of nine protected islands dotting the South China Sea off the Terengganu coast. The island offers crystal clear waters and numerous dive sites for enthusiasts. Sheltered within the Pulau Redang Marine Park, the waters here are rich in marine life. At midday when sun rays penetrate the sea, brilliant hues of coral, anemones and fish can be seen. The waters around Pulau Redang also contain two historic shipwrecks: The H.M.S. Prince of Wales and H.M.S. Repulse, which sank here at the start of World War II, setting the stage for the Japanese occupation of Malaya. This paradise island is perfect for snorkelling, swimming, scuba- diving, jungle trekking, boating and canoeing.

Tioman Island

Lies off the east coast of Peninsular Malaysia and sitting like an emerald dragon guarding the translucent waters of the South China Sea, Tioman Island offers every possible shade of paradise. There's cascading waterfalls, rigorous jungle hikes that take you past orange blossoms under an evergreen canopy and a wide sampling of laid-back villages that present a tapestry of cultures and curiosities. That gorgeous sea of greens, blues and chartreuse swirls that beckons you to paddle, snorkel and sail. The area is known for its dive sites, which have corals, sea fans and sea sponges, as well as shipwrecks. The island is covered in tropical rainforests, home to butterflies, lizards and monkeys.

Borneo

Borneo is the third largest island in the world, surrounded by South China Sea to the north and Sulu Sea to the north-east. This portion of the island is administered by Malaysia except for a small state of Brunei, which is an independent country, quite popular for its abundant oil reserves. Borneo is divided into two states – Sabah and Sarawak.

Borneo is famous for its wildlife and nature parks particularly Orangutans and Proboscis monkeys, its diversified ethnic groups, one of the best diving spots in the world and the highest mountain in the region, Mount Kinabalu.

Orangutan breeding and rehabilitation centres have been set up by various government and voluntary organizations and most of these centres are open for visitors to go up close to see these wonderful animals. Allowing visitors also supports them financially to continue their efforts to rehabilitate this endangered species.

Among all the national parks in Borneo, Mount Kinabalu National Park is the most famous one. It is about 4100m high and can be easily accessed, you need an average level of fitness though and we have guided tours to give you a spectacular view from the highest mountain in South East Asia. In addition Kota Kinabalu boasts some of the finest beaches and some beautiful beach resorts offering you a wonderful stay at some very reasonable costs.

Sabah

Sabah is located in Malaysian Borneo. It is a year round destination that is hot and sunny so ideal for any outdoor pursuits. Known as the adventure loving state - travellers can enjoy trekking lush jungles, exploring caves, water sports, climbing mountains, wildlife, forest, coral reefs, scuba diving.

The state's most famous residents are the 'wild men of Malaysia': the Orangutans in Sepilok, the world's largest established rehabilitation for Orangutans. Mount Kinabalu is one of its most well-known landmarks and will definitely test your fitness. The mountain rewards climbers with spectacular views; a special treat is to experience the summit for the spectacular dawn view. Sabah is renowned for its flora and fauna, and attracts travellers from all over the world keen to view the many varieties of animals and plants. It is a magnificent place to explore.

Kota Kinabalu

Kota Kinabalu lies under the watchful eye of Mount Kinabalu and is the bustling and colourful gateway to Sabah. KK, as it is locally known, has many places of interest. Major shopping malls are located along the main artery of the city and recreational activities include diving or snorkelling in the crystal clear waters of the Tunku Abdul Rahman Park, a mere 15mins from the city by ferry. Visit Signal Hill Observatory, with its magnificent views of the city; the State Mosque and the Likas Bird Sanctuary; or wander through the fascinating State Museum. Sandakan

Sandakan is a town on the east coast of Sabah, facing the Sulu Sea. It is a town rich in historical sites and a gateway to many eco-tourism destinations. Visit the Puu Gih Jih Chinese Temple - a majestic temple erected on top of a hill facing Sandakan Bay; St Michael and All Angels Cathedral, erected in late 19th century and one of the oldest stone buildings in Sabah. Close by is Sepilok Orangutan Sanctuary, world's oldest and largest Orangutan Rehabilitation centre, which is located just 26 km from Sandakan. The Gomantong Caves, situated 32 km south of Sandakan are home to hundreds of thousands of swifts and millions of bats, which have become a spectacular sight to many tourists.

Sarawak

A lot of its appeal to travellers is that the area is undeveloped, with 60% of the region covered in rainforests. There is a well-developed national park system which ensures much of the natural beauty of the island can be maintained and the 23 ethnic groups within the state have a strong sense of identity so exploring the cultural aspects of Sarawak are truly rewarding.

Trekking through the mountainous rainforests and meeting local tribe people can be a wonderful experience and Sarawak Cultural Village, just outside of Kuching, displays authentic ethnic architecture and lifestyles. Rainforests of Sarawak are home to the richest and most diverse ecosystem in the world. The rich flora and fauna include the world's largest flower Rafflesia, squirrels and snakes that fly, plants that eat insects and various other species of plants and insects that are yet to be discovered.

Kuching

Once the capital of the White Rajahs of Sarawak, Kuching is small enough to walk around but interesting enough to keep you there for several days, and a good base for exploring Sarawak. It's safe and relatively clean. The name of the city,

Kuching, is thought to derive from the Malay word kucing, meaning cat and there are a number of cat statues throughout the city.

Miri & Mulu

Miri is a vibrant town with spectacular diving paradises, breath taking national parks and frequent festivals and is the gateway to the Gunung Mulu National Park and Mulu Caves - a World Heritage site. Mulu's concentration of caves, its geomorphic and structural characteristics make for an interesting tour. This area is where many tribes have lived since time began and you can observe the various ethnic groups native this region where they have a remarkable understanding of the rainforest and used it for generations for their food, medicines, tool making and building shelters.
